In response to the national delay in the availability of influenza vaccine for the 2000-2001 influenza season, the Department of Defense and Coast Guard have announced their plan for prioritizing immunizations to maintain optimal military readiness and protect their most vulnerable populations.

The delay has been created by two factors - a slow-growing component of this year's vaccine formulation, along with production problems at two of the four pharmaceutical companies that produce influenza vaccine.

The DoD and Coast Guard will delay organized influenza vaccination campaigns until early to mid-November, pending receipt of adequate supplies of vac-

Currently available supplies will be administered first to operational military personnel, health-care workers with direct patient contact, and Defense Enrollment Eligibility Reporting System enrollees (both active duty and non-active duty) who have high-risk medical conditions.

To the extent possible, these groups will be done simultaneously.

Next in order of priority will be military trainees, groups in close contact with high-risk persons, all other military members in priority for deployment, other active critical DoD civilians at OCONOS facilities, and all other beneficiaries

Naval Hospital Rota will be receiving a very limited supply of the flu vaccine within the next week with the remaining supply anticipated by early December.

Medical personnel from the Hospital are developing a prioritization plan based on the guidance from DoD,

Inclement weather causes car accident

Inclement weather conditions caused a vehicle to overturn Friday night at the intersection of Ave. III and Flor Ave.

The driver was heading in a northeasterly direction when poor visibility, due to heavy rains, caused the driver to lose sight of the road. As the car veered off the road, its tire caught the edge of the street and flipped.

The driver was transported to U.S. Naval Hospital, Rota and was released. He sustained no injuries.

Sparky visits DGF third graders

JO3 Ricky Allen

Naval Station Rota's fire department will sponsor a series of activities throughout the community this week, in awareness of Fire Prevention Week.

Learning how to prevent fires, and what to do if a fire occurs are some of the main objectives of fire prevention week.

"Fire Prevention Week teaches everyone besides children to respect fire and the dangers of fire," said Norman Massengale, assistant fire chief of training, Naval Station, Rota.

People should take this time to remember the fundamentals of preventing fires, said Jose Hernandez, base fire inspector.

"Fire prevention is the key to fighting fires," he said. "We are not here to put out fires, but to teach people how to prevent them. It's a reminder that the prevention of fire should be in everybody's mind.'

Children can be an effective resource when it comes to fire prevention because they will Rota's Fire Department is scheduled to conduct lectures, special classes, videos, coloring contests, and surprise visits from Sparky at DGF Elementary.

There are also other demonstrations scheduled Friday, Oct. 13 at the Navv Exchange, followed by a parade through the housing area, Oct. 14.

The idea of Fire Prevention Week came after the historic Chicago fire; a fire in which 250 people were killed and 100,000 were left homeless.

More than 17,400 structures were destroved and 2000 acres of land were burned within a 27-hour time period.

On the 40th anniversary of the fire, the Fire Marshals Association of North America became the sponsors of the first National Fire Prevention Day. In 1920, former President Woodrow Wilson issued the first Fire Prevention Week proclamation. However, the week wasn't observed until 1922.

Celebrate the power of crime prevention

Security Department

The Crime Prevention Coalition of America, made up of 120 national, federal, and state organizations, has designated October as Crime Prevention Month.

The month-long celebration recognizes successful crime prevention and community building efforts on the local, state, and national levels.

The intent is to generate interest and enthusiasm for prevention efforts to continue to grow even stronger and become more widespread.

Captain Richard R. Noble, Commander, U.S. Naval Activities, Spain, is encouraging all personnel to invest in the power of prevention by driving crime from our neighborhoods to build a safer future

He is taking time to acknowledge community members and organizations that have taken personal responsibility for their neighborhoods. This year's theme, The Power of Prevention: Invest In It, reflects the fact that time. money, and other resources spent on prevention can generate tremendous benefits in reducing crime and making communities safer places to live, work, and play.

This year marks the 7th

"Rota's statistics... have proved that grassroots, collaborative action works to keep crime down."

consecutive year that crime has fallen in Rota.

Rota's statistics, like those of communities across the United States, have proved that grassroots, collaborative action works to keep crime down.

Programs like: Home Security Surveys (on base and off base), Vid-A-Kid, Bicycle Registration, Personnel Property I.D., D.A.R.E., and Neighborhood Watches all contribute to a decreasing crime rate

The worst reaction we can have to crime, violence, or drugs is to recoil in fear and retreat into isolation.

During Crime Prevention Month, community agencies and organizations in Rota will showcase their accomplishments, reach out to educate and empower the public through educational campaigns, and explore new partnerships that build stronger communities.

Nearly 41,000 women lose their lives to breast cancer, early detection helps

Health Promotion Department Naval Hospital, Rota

This week marks the beginning of National Breast Cancer Awareness Month. Breast Cancer is the leading cancer diagnosed in women in America.

This year, nearly 183,000 women will learn for the first time that they have this disease and nearly 41,000 women will lose their lives.

However, when breast cancer is detected early and treated promptly, suffering and ultimately the loss of life can be significantly reduced.

National Mammography Day will be held Oct. 20, to around the base during the promote mammography ex-

Women must make mammography screening a part of their regular health care routine. Women with a family history of breast cancer should contact their Primary Care Manager.

Bureau of Medicine and European Command regarding who should receive the shot first

Those personnel being targeted initially are active duty personnel who anticipate deploying between October and mid-December and medically high-risk personnel.

Included in the medically highrisk group are beneficiaries age 65 and older, healthcare workers with patient contact, and those adults and children with various chronic medical disorders.

The annual flu shot campaign in Rota for most personnel will be held in December.

Dates and locations where personnel will be able to receive their shot will be announced soon.

Although the vaccine will be a little late this year, Cmdr. William Henderson, Director for Community Health at Naval Hospital Rota, assures Rota should be ahead of the primary or peak time for influenza, which for this area is the January-February timeframe.

The Hospital typically begins seeing a few cases towards the end of the Christmas/New Year holiday period and then sees a peak in flu activity in the January-February months.

A mid-December vaccine should afford most people enough time for the two-week immune response to develop antibodies against the flu, he said.

Europe.

Liz Koeing, one of eight women from NATO headquarters in Madrid who attended the event, said she arranged this trip specifically to boost the morale of her peers.

"The new [NATO] headquarters has started up in Madrid, and it has not been easy," said Koeing. "Many of us have been sitting in hotel rooms for two months without any connections. Our husbands take the families' only car to work, and there is no networking available for us.

"[The forum] has been a relief - literally a get-away for us," she said.

This is exactly what Lt. Mari Schulz intended the day to be. While stationed in Okinawa, she attended a one-day forum for

So Schulz, a graduate of DGF High School and the daughter of a Spaniard, returned to Rota with an idea in mind.

"I knew that I wanted to create the same thing for the women in Rota because I wanted to give something back to the community that had given so much to me," Schulz said.

To make the event happen, Schulz had to create her own organization, the Rota Joint Women's Forum, and personally solicit par-

Her treasurer, Catherine Bird, said, "Someone wrote on their [event] evaluation form 'Lt Schulz is incredible' and that pretty much sums it up because initially she had trouble finding people to support the project, but she didn't give up. She looked around until she found people with a similar vision and she ran with it."

Ten months of hard work paid off, said Schulz.

"To be there and to see so many smiling faces and to have so many people come up to you and thank you for a great day, and to have people come up to you and say that meeting will be held in the Family Practice this was well above their expectations - there's just nothing like it.

"I walked away knowing that I made a difference," said Schulz. "We've given people, who predominately give to others, an opportunity to take a break and spend a day for themselves. We gave them an excuse to get away and replenish themselves."

Bird and Schulz both acknowledge the community for the success of the event.

"We couldn't have done this without the speakers who scheduled their Saturday, ten months in advance, and kept to their commitment," said Schulz.

"What impressed me with the whole pro cess," said Bird, "is that there was so much talent on this base, and even with 70 workshops, there were still more people we could have asked that would have given a worthwhile presentation."

One attendee, Jan Owen, said that even though her favorite part of the forum was listening to the keynote speaker, Capt. Elizabeth Holmes, it was the variety of the workshops that made the day so successful.

"I went to some of the speakers that I was interested in professionally," said Owen, "and some that I was interested in personally. You could go to 'Leveling the Playing Field' right after attending the 'Making a Snowman Hangar'. It shows what women are all about. We're multi-dimensional."

Another attendee, Karen Melvin, was so impressed with the event that she has decided to join the Rota Joint Women's Forum to help organize next year's event, she

"I can see how much people enjoyed [the forum] and I can see how much value something like this can have for others," said Melvin. "Unless people step up and volunteer for something like this, it won't happen again.'

Markets are held weekly 9 a.m. to 1 p.m.

unique event occurring weekly in many Spanish towns and cities is the Gypsy Market. From live snails to wristwatches, nearly anything can be found among the various booths and stands set up in vacant lots for a few hours each week. While it may not be WalMart or Super K, it is an interesting place to go for inexpensive clothing, spices, shoes and other merchandise.

The vendors follow different routes throughout the country so you might not see the same faces or goods for sale each week. Don't let the concept of "Gypsies" conjure visions of thieves and traveling snake-oil salesmen – the scene is really quite tame. The open air market has similar characteristics to the flea market, except the merchandise is new, in the case of shoes or underwear, or fresh, in the case of live snails or olives

Snails are the primary ingredients for the tapa caracoles, unless you are experienced, snail cooking is best left to the professionals. For the adventurous, caracoles may be sampled at many local bars and restaurants. For less adventurous folks, dried spices, beans, pastas, nuts, as well as fresh olives, and smoked meats may be found at the gypsy market.

Name brand clothing such as Abercrombie & Fitch and Tommy Hilfiger will not be found, but inexpensive, generic clothing and shoes are abundant. There are no dressing rooms in the open air lot so it is wise to check the sizes and fabric content which are usually clearly marked on the garments. At the footwear stands, the vendor may have stools available for customers to use when trying on footwear.

Given the informal air of the market, one may be tempted to bargain with the merchants. But according to a Family Service Center representative, it is really unnecessary to haggle because the prices are already quite reasonable.

The Gypsy Market in Rota is held Wednesdays from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. outside of Naval Station's Rota gate, in the vacant lot just past the bus station. It is best to leave your car inside the base at the Rota gate and make the two minute walk to the market.

Friday -Bless the Child (R) Saturday - Chicken Run (G) Sunday - Bless the Child (R) Drive-in movies begin around 9:00 p.m.

Bless the Child (R-for drug content violence and brief language) Thriller: Kim Basinger, Angela Bettis & Holliston Coleman (101 min). When a psychiatric ward nurse discovers that members of a satanic cult have kidnapped her autistic 6-year-old niece, Cody, she commits herself to fighting against the forces of evil in order to get the child back.

The Replacements (PG-13-for some crude sexual humor and language) Drama; Keanu Reeves & Gene Hackman (114 min). Everyone knows that a winter without football would be a disaster for sports fans everywhere. When their professional team goes on strike, the owners of the Washington Sentinels create a new team using players who love the game and think with their heads, not their wallets: never expecting to make the playoffs.

Autumn in New York (PG-13-for language and some sensuality) Drama: Richard Gere & Winona Ryder (104 min). A sad story of an older man, a known playboy, who picks up a vounger woman and the two fall in love. However, when she reveals that she is suffering from a terminal illness the relationship takes in a deeper meaning.

Space Cowboys (PG-13-for some language) Sci-Fi/ Fantasy: Clint Eastwood. James Garner, Tommy Lee Jones & Donald Sutherland (130 min). A 60-year-old astronaut is sent on a mission to repair a broken satellite that threatens to cause a disaster on earth if it falls from outerspace. The only catch is that he insists that three of his friends who were not originally selected in the astronaut training program, accompany him as his crew.

Chicken Run (G-for all audience) Animated: Mel Gibson & Julia Sawalha (95 min). The chickens on Tweed Farm are looking for a way out. Rocky the Rooster and Ginger the chicken, are tired of being repressed and know they face certain death, so in planning their escape, they rally with their fellow chickens.

Remember the Titans (PG-13) Denzel Washington (113 min). Based on a true story of Herman Boone, an African-American football coach who in 1971 lead a racially divided high school team, the Titans, to victory Boone overcame racial prejudices and bigotry among his team and other coaches, teaching players respect, dedication, and strength. He was a huge inspiration and role-model to the team and made a great impact on the small community of Alexandria.
